David Hodkinson

David joined LOHP in 2013 shortly after moving to the area and became a trustee in 2014. He is a practising ecologist and director of an ecological consultancy. He brings an international perspective to the work of LOHP having worked on conservation projects throughout the world including founding a community conservation organisation in Canada.